Travel identification

It is your responsibility to ensure that you carry the required documentation for your travel arrangements.

Although British citizens do not require passports to travel to the Channel Islands all airlines require that you produce valid photo identification at check in and they will refuse boarding if you do not do so. Documentation requirements do vary from one airline to another, but the most commonly accepted forms are a valid passport, photo driving licence or citizen card.

Whilst ferry companies have not introduced this requirement as yet, it is anticipated that they may do so and if you have official photo I.D. you are advised to carry it, as any carrier may ask for proof of identification at any time.

Financial protection

When you are planning a holiday, you not only want to know that your tour operator has the necessary experience to guide you through complex itinerary planning, but you also want to know that your holiday is financially safe. The money you pay for your holiday is secure under the protection provided by our Air Travel Organiser's Licence^{††} and the bond we hold with the Association of British Travel Agents. Put simply, if something happens to us, you get your money back.

Dynamic Pricing

We want to be able to give you the best price possible at the time of booking. Throughout the year airlines make changes to their pricing structures, which allow us, at times, to offer special discounted prices. Our 'Dynamic Pricing Policy' ensures that our experienced travel advisors will take advantage of any current special offers, confirming the best price available on the day.

It is advisable to purchase travel insurance at the time of booking. Channel Islands Direct are able to provide a comprehensive insurance policy. If you would like more information, please call Channel Islands Direct on 01481 729660 and they will be happy to discuss this with you.
